Council Notes

Midterm and final examination failures and conditions would not be posted until after all examinations are over, if a proposal now before the Student Council were approved by it and, subsequently, by the Administration.

Proponents of the measure feel that since nothing can be accomplished by the students involved concerning these points until after the exams are finished, the tensions that often prove disastrous in the remaining exams, can and should be avoided.

The council wishes to make clear that the students have been failing in their First Friday responsibilities. Although the council still feels that students should not be forced to attend, the administration can at anytime enforce the old laws.

Glee Club Makes Financial Report

The Glee Club reports that the latest results of its annual Card Party show that $1,036.39 was recognized on the affair. This figure represents an increase of $600 over last year.

Father Lawler, moderator of the Club, and Mrs. Naomi Hamilton, general chairman, express their gratitude to all who co-operated in making the Party such a fine success. Proceeds will be used to finance green blazers for the Club members.

Miss Virginia Reinecke, director of the Club, is presently preparing the Club for the spring semester, and reminds all who wish to become members to see her on Thursday at 4 p.m. in Cohn Hall.

Eight local college dramatic societies will attend the first Dramatic Reading and mixer of the Baltimore Intercollegiate Drama Commission on Sunday, Feb. 14, at 8:00 P.M. in the Student Lounge. Each college will present a 20 minute reading of a scene from a famous drama. Loyola's Dramatists will enact its scene from "The Death of a Salesman," a play not totally unfamiliar to the Masque and Rapper Society. These readings will be the first activity sponsored by the commission.

The Commission itself is a new organization on the college campus. It was originally organized by Mt. St. Agnes College in November of 1959. Participating at present are the Dramatic Societies of Mt. St. Agnes, Notre Dame of Md., Johns Hopkins, Goucher, Villa Julie, Morgan State, Baltimore University, and Loyola. Each of the colleges is represented by two delegates and an alternate. John Trently, Paul Cawthorne, and John Baynes (alt.) represented Loyola.

The Dramatic Commission itself was originated to increase the cooperation between the playshops of the member schools, and to foster a general interest in dramatics. During two meetings the commission has centrally listed props, costumes, and equipment of the respective societies in order that schools can easily exchange or borrow materials. Production dates have also been catalogued to prevent conflicting performances. Dramatic Readings with mixers have been scheduled to augment collegiate interest. The resulting co-operation and interest should prove to be both a financial and a membership aid to the Dramatic Society.

Discussing plans for the first Dramatic Readings are John Baynes and John Trently, who will present a scene from "The Death of a Salesman."

Time To Join

We believe that extra-curricular activities are an important part of a student's education, and that every student should take an active part in at least one extra-curricular activity. We mean an active part, not just signing up with the organization, getting your picture in the yearbook, and being able to put down the name of the activity next to your picture in your senior yearbook.

Here at Loyola we are fortunate enough to have many extra curricular activities. Besides the yearbook, glee club, dramatics, debating, and newspaper organizations which are prominent on all college campuses, each major field of study offers a club for its students. There is a physics club, a management club in the business department, a history academy, etc.

Athletics, also, are an important part of college life. Each student should participate in some type of sport, if not varsity, then intramural. Loyola's athletic program is excellent and offers to its students sports of all kinds.

The big question is whether or not the extra activities are doing a successful job. During the 1958-59 school year, according to the President's Report, the college administration gave over $50,000 to its student activities. Was this worthwhile? We think that if enough students benefited at all, and many did, that it was.

Extra-curricular activities are offered by the school for the benefit of the student. Now, at the beginning of the second semester, is an excellent time to reassess your participation in extra-curriculars. The organizations are there -- how about it? R.H.R.

Abe Lincoln

Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday we celebrate today, was a man whose achievements all students should notice and profit from. His struggles were great, and more than likely he considered the division of the union as great a problem as could ever happen. Today, however, we seem to be facing even greater difficulties in our fight against communism and atomic destruction.

It seems to us that Lincoln's success came about through three prime factors: his deep faith in God, his great integrity, and a sense of humor which was quite irrepressible. These three along with fundamental common sense made him one of the greatest men in United States history.

In today's world there seems to be a lack of faith in God, and a lack of integrity. These two factors are musts in our education here at Loyola. We must remember that one of the basic purposes of a Catholic education is the development of character. And Lincoln, through developing his character, was able to reach the top. R.A.R.

Meet The Faculty

Mr. Vincent Colimore

This year in between marking French papers and scouting tennis players, Mr. Vincent Colimore is working on a plan by which he hopes to obtain a sufficient number of people to charter a plane for a four week stay in Europe. The offer is open to the students, alumni, and the faculty of Loyola and their immediate families, depending on the number of passengers, the price will vary. The trip will be made in either June or July.

Since his arrival at Loyola fourteen years ago, Mr. Colimore has distinguished himself as one of the most active members of the faculty. He studied the humanities and philosophy at Loyola University in Chicago.

Having received his master's degree in the Romance Languages from Fordham University, he began teaching at Loyola. Here he is the Chairman of the Modern Language department.

Presently, Mr. Colimore is busy writing his doctorate thesis on the subject, "The Philosophy of Education of Paffaiello Lambuschini as Compared With the Catholic Elementary Philosophy of Education," for New York University.

Last summer Mr. Colimore made his third trip to Europe. He went on an Italian freighter from Norfolk by way of Gibraltar to Trieste. While staying at a Jesuit University Pension for 15,000 lire ($2.50) a day for room and board, Mr. Colimore toured Florence and visited the University and the National Library there, working on his thesis.

In addition to his full teaching schedule at Loyola, Mr. Colimore coaches the tennis team. During the thirteen year period that he has coached tennis, the team has always finished near the top and four years it won the Championship Mason-Dixon Title. He has coached such renowned players as Jim Lacy, '49, this year's Baltimore Junior Chamber of Commerce's "Man of the Year," and Bill Thaler, '47, the famous atomic physicist.

On the subject of modern languages, Mr. Colimore has this to say to the students. "Students who have ability in languages should pursue their study of languages and should try to become as proficient as possible in them."

It's ingenious the way they have the refreshment machines in the basement timed to run out at the same time the cafeteria is closed for the day.

Mr. Balda has been edged out as the wrestling team heavy weight by a very capable Mr. Neavel.

On Tuesday the junior members of R.O.T.C. went up on the field to practice radio communications. The clearest thing that came in, however was the Amos and Andy show from Washington.

Mole Vitrano wishes to thank whoever is responsible for the excellent custom work on the front of his car. Mole can't make up his mind whether the work was done with a hammer or a large truck. Would the party responsible please contact Mole, as he would like to pass the method on to admiring friends.

We have on hand a letter from Mademoiselle magazine requesting some fiction for a contest it is running. If anyone is interested and knows some good stories submit them to the fiction editor. If you win we suggest you use the prize as a part payment on the tuition at Vassar or some other reputable school.

Last week when the R.O.T.C. members were lined up for the lecture, some of them who had not read the bulletin board thought they were being punished for offenses committed last term on the drill field. Maybe they were.

Some of the freshmen are walking around heavy-hearted because their plans for a dance have been overshadowed by the mixers. Dances are getting like taxes around here. As a matter of fact one is coming up after the Washington College game this Saturday. Most people will agree that these mixers have been very successful. Stop around and see for yourself.

One of the juniors was disappointed when he found out that he was not allowed to read Moby Dick during philosophy class.

Debators In Two Tournaments Harvard JHU

The Bellarmine Debating Society of Loyola College continued its practice of competing against the best debating teams in the country by attending the seventh annual Harvard University Forensic tournament at Cambridge last weekend. Thom Curtis and John Baynes represented Loyola at this tournament debating the proposition: "Resolved, Congress should be given the power to reverse decisions of the Supreme Court" for eight rounds, alternately taking the affirmative and negative positions.

Among the school's competing in the Harvard tournament were Loyola University, Chicago, a semi-finalist; Loyola University, New Orleans; the University of California; Notre Dame; the University of Texas; and Brigham Young University, the winner of the tournament.

Against the nation's strongest teams Loyola did not do as well as might have been expected, garnering 460 points as compared with 662 and 621 points respectively, the scores of the two teams entered by the winners, Brigham Young.

Loyola's debaters entered the Johns Hopkins Invitation Tournament, which this year saw such teams as Duquesne, Georgetown, West Point, Fordham, and Dartmouth competing.

In this two man tournament, the team alternates between affirmative and negative in six rounds. Tom Dwyer and Bob Goldsmith on the negative side defeated Merchant Marine Academy and Maryland while dropping a decision to highly rated Hamilton College by one point.

Affirmatively they beat Franklin & Marshall while losing to Brooklyn College and St. Mary's of Indiana. With this 3-3 record, Loyola finished about the middle position with King's 6-0 record taking the trophy followed by runners-up Penn and Duquesne.

Charley Graham tries for sit out against Hampden Sydney.

Grapplers Entertain W. MD. On Wednesday

The coming match with Western Maryland here at 3:00 P.M. on the sixteenth promises to be close and interesting. Loyola's team is in better shape than ever before, so our men will hold their own against their more experienced wrestlers.

Hounds Triumph

Loyola beat Hampden Sydney last Friday by a score of 21-13. This meet was better attended than any previous match.

Run Down

Vince McCann lost an exhibition bout before the main contests started. Bill Iampieri was decisioned by Kenton 4-1 in the 127 weight class. In the 131 class Tom Iampieri pinned his man in 1:50. Hampden Sydney forfeited th 137 bout to Buck McCarthy.

Although he was out of his weight class, Buck Parr, 137, beat Curry, 147 by a score of 5-2.

Mike Buchness, 157, lost 7-3. Charley Carey, 167, easily won by a score of 7-1. Charley Graham tied in the 177 match 3-3. Mike Garrett, 191, was pinned in the first period, and in the unlimited class Tom Kneavel, 225, won the first match which he has ever wrestled by a score of 6-3.

After the home meet against C. U. on the 20th at 2:30, the season ends with the tournament at Gallaudet on the 26th and 27th.

Swimmers Against Georgetown Tomorrow

The mermen of Loyola, undefeated in non-conference play with a three victory skien over colleges such as Fordham and Gettysburg, face two stern opponents next week in Georgetown University and LaSalle College. The Georgetown meet is on Saturday at 2:30 at home; while the 'hounds' must travel to swim against mighty LaSalle College on Wednesday, the 17th.

Both Strong

The Georgetown meet, one in which the 'hounds' will most likely be favored, may not be as easy as it seems. The reason for this is that Georgetown is a very large college and is somewhat of an unknown quantity depending on the ability of their freshman swimmers.

LaSalle, on the other hand, has been one of the nation's powerhouses since going big time in 1941. Since then, they have won 123 and lost but 14 against top flight opposition. In 1953, the 'hounds' handed them one of their 14 defeats and will be going all out to hand them another.

Short Dips

A new event in swimming this year is the individual medley. It has four events and is a 200 yard medley. The swimmer does fifty yards each of the butterfly, the backstroke, the breast stroke, and may then swim whatever he likes for the last fifty yards.

Swim Coach Bill Klarner

GREYHOUND SPORTS

By ROL STURM

Greyhound Sports Editor

Loyola fell behind in the traditional series with Mt. St. Mary's 44-43 with a 60-58 loss last Wednesday. After having a 14 pt. lead with only 10 minutes remaining, the Hounds ran out of gas. Sneeringer led the hounds with 19.

The Hound Swimmers also lost their first meet of the season to A. U. 60-35 last Wednesday. In this meet the 400 yd. medley relay was won by A. U. by a tenth of a second, and the 50 and 100 yd. freestyle events by decision.

Wrestling proved itself to be very interesting spectator sport in Loyola's 21 to 13 win over Hampden Sydney. There was a fine crowd on hand and their reaction to the victory was tremendous.

With the score close enough going into the final match that Hampden Sydney could possibly gain a tie, the crowd was on their feet cheering Loyola's heavyweight, Tom Kneavel, on to victory.

Loyola fans were also treated to a fine display of Basketball last Friday night. In the warm ups Belmont Abbey displayed some of the razzle-dazzle for which they are well known, but after the first few minutes of play Loyola took command. The game was close all the way, but the Hounds prevailed with their deliberate offense and an alert defense to win 53 to 51.

By PETE COOK

With the invasion of Washington College at 8:15 p.m. tomorrow night, the Loyola College home basketball season comes to a close.

Earlier in the season the Greyhounds traveled to Chestertown (Md.) and after given an early scare by the hosts finally beat the pesky Sho'man, 75-65.

The team has had its ups and downs this season. After losing a could-have-gone-either-way season's opener to American University C1-59, the Hounds traveled to New York for their annual brush with their small college powers. St. Francis of Brooklyn and St. Peter's of New Jersey simply outclassed the men of Evergreen and the squad returned hom winless in three starts.

After Hofstra pinned the fourth straight defeat on the Hounds (72-70), Lefty Reitz's crew came up with a good performance against Adelphi and won 72-65.

The pre-holiday campaigning was closed out as John Heagney led the hounds victories over Western Maryland (98-80) and Towson State Teachers (81-50).

Again, the Green and Grey went into a temporary victory famine losing to a hot University of Baltimore team by 68-61 and to Seton Hall by 69-59.

They bounced right back for three straight conference victories over Johns Hopkins (76-55) Washington College (75-65), and Catholic University 53-50.

Mt. St. Mary's checked the winning streak by 90-70, however, thus leaving the Reitzmen 6-7 before exams. Since then, the squad has lost to American U. and beat Belmont Abbey 53-51.

Meet The Coach

For the past decade, Loyola's aqua-men have had affable Bill Klarner as their head coach. Born in D.C., Bill came to Baltimore where he attended high school at City. He played football and swam two years for the 33rd street Black Knights.

Klarner entered Loyola College in 1947 and because of the accelerated program then in effect, he graduated in 1950. He was an outstanding member of the swimming team during his three year college career. During his senior year he was undefeated in the 200 yard breaststroke. He won the M-D title, indoor and outdoor, in this event.

Bill returned to Evergreen in 1950 to begin a coaching career. In ten years his teams have compiled an admirable record, winning 40, losing 33, with 1 tie. The Klarner-led Hounds have also captured five conference titles. The most amazing feat attained by his teams, is the fact that in ten years they have lost but three conference meets.

Bill showers a great deal of praise on Loyola's excellent swimming facilities. He claims that the Hounds have one of the finest and most well equipped pools in the conference.

The future looks quite bright according to the optimistic coach because some of the local high schools have plans to construct pools. This means more material for Klarner and no doubt, many victories in the ensuing years.
